FUN BUT NO SHARKS

The Yachtsmen Have a Good Time.

SCARE AWAY THE FISH

As a Result of the Expedition the
Yachtsmen May Have a Club House.

The much talked of sharking expedition came off Saturday according to schedule and was, to do it full justice, a howling success. Eight yachts and the Young Bros. gasoline launch, made up the fleet and sixty-four yachtsmen formed the crews, divided up as follows: Helene, fifteen; Hawaii, eight; Dewey and La Paloma, seven each; Eva and Abbie M, six each; Marion, five; Vi-ke, four, and the Rosie and launch three each. Several others joined the party yesterday morning for the pleasure of the harbor sailing.

The yachts got away well together and as was to be expected several very pretty races took place on the run down. The closest and probably the most interesting was between the Vi-ke and the Abbie M, the two boats keeping together for several miles as if there was a cable between them.

The Dewey got away a little in the lead of the Eva and bent her efforts to reaching the harbor in advance of her which she barely succeeded in doing. The Hawaii and Helene had started off towards Diamond Head with the Healan, which Mr. Hatch took out about the same time, and the Hawaii did not stand away for Pearl Harbor until the other yachts were well on their way making her among the last to get there.

The Helene was the first to cross the bar, then the Eva closely followed by the Dewey, Abbie M, Vi-ke and Hawaii in the order named. The Rosie, La Paloma and Marion were unable to leave Honolulu until some time after the others making them too late for the run to the head of the west Loch which most of the others made. By dark most of the boats were anchored in a row off Puuloa with the Hawaii farthest in and the Marion nearest to the sea. The Abbie M had taken a run up to the railroad wharf and in working their way back after dark got hung up on a bar, mauka of the salt house, where they spent the night. All hands piped to supper soon after coming to anchor, the piping being done by fog horns in various stages of hoarseness. After supper the launch under the joint captaincy of Jack Atkinson and Arthur Wilder, gathered a party of about twenty and made the rounds of the fleet serving out, what they called music. Perhaps it was music, but if so, it must have been a relic of the very dark ages and its whiskers were very long and bushy, the general effect being that of an old fashioned skimmington or charivari.

Did any one say anything about sharks? Well only this, that if none were brought back, it was because they were scared away for a circle of many, many miles. It would have been a brave shark that swam the harbor within the hearing of the music and the firearms or within the radius of the searchlights.

The boys got no sharks but they got an elegant carmine tint to their noses which would be the envy of many a man who has spent thousands of dollars for not nearly so bright a color.

After breakfast yesterday morning the yachts commenced to scatter, some breaking out for home, some for a cruise in the rough water outside, and the rest for a sail around Pearl Lochs. Several of the boats were up to Waiau to give their crews a chance for a fresh water swim. The Eva got in a little too close and got stuck in the mud. The Dewey and the launch both went to her assistance and with the help of the launch only, she got off with no harm done. The Eva, Dewey and Hawaii started for home about 1 o'clock and in the order named, the Eva leading all the way up. The Hawaii and Dewey had about as close and pretty a race as they did Regatta Day, leaving their moorings not more than a couple of minutes apart and sailing into the Honolulu harbor side by side.

Sky, wind and water were as if furnished to order, the weather being simply perfect and the expedition was generally rated a most satisfactory one. Many laughable incidents occurred and everyone appeared in the best of humor. The introduction of the boys from the East to pol was decidedly funny to the kamaainas, owing to the efforts of said boys to take their medicine with a smiling countenance.

The question of a location for a Club House at Pearl Harbor was discussed some and there seems to be quite a strong sentiment in favor of locating it at Waiau where the fresh water bathing will be available. This location would be right on the line of the O. R. & L. Co., and about fifteen minutes nearer Honolulu than the railroad wharf and boat house on the lee side of the Peninsula, which would be in its favor.

It requires a better knowledge of the harbor than the Peninsula location however, as it is a very easy matter to get on a mud bank in working in to Waiau. It would be inexpensive to buoy off the dangerous spots however which would obviate that objection.

Prospects for the formation of the club seem very bright at present and with such a showing of enthusiasm as was given Saturday and yesterday, it should be easy to push the matter to an early and successful conclusion.

When a customer asks for Jesse Moore "AA" Whiskey, he does it because he knows that the whiskey is good.
